SASTA INTERNATIONAL VISITORS GRANT

SASTA has created two grants (one in the field of agriculture and one in the field of milling) to fund research visits by international experts. Persons who are interested to apply for this grant are welcome to contact the SASTA secretary. The following criteria need to be met:

- The visitor must be willing to spend at least two weeks in South Africa while working intensively with local scientists on an approved small project.
- The project must have a distinctive outcome, such as a new set of standards, a scientific paper, etc...
- The project should generate a relatively wide interest among sugar technologists and should ideally be of a pre-competitive nature.
- To further enhance networking, local university academics and students should be attracted to the activities that will be carried out.
- The visitor may be asked to act as a keynote speaker at a coinciding SASTA workshop or congress.

SASTA council will review a short application first and if successful, will then invite candidates for a more detailed elicited application. The SASTA International Visitors Grant is open at all times and does not have any specified closing dates for applicants.

SASTA Roadshow 2011 to Sezela

The 3rd Roadshow was held at the Sezela Country Club on Wednesday 23 February. The talks presented on the day had already been presented at Congress 2010, and were of particular interest to growers in the region.

Fifty four delegates attended, fifteen of whom became new SASTA members in order to attend the event. The sponsorship contribution from KwaZulu Hybrid seeds is gratefully acknowledged, and was used to subsidise the teas and lunch enjoyed by delegates.

Gavin Smith, the SASTA President, welcomed the delegates, and gave them a short introduction to SASTA, and explained the role that members could play in nominating candidates from the grower sector for the annual SASTA Agriculture Innovation award.

Gavin and Kerry Redshaw (The SASTA Vice-President) shared the chairing duties for the two sessions.

The talks that were given were:

- Eighty-fifth annual review of the milling season 2009-2010 (South Coast region only) by Gavin Smith,
- Review of South African sugarcane production in the 2009-2010 season from an agricultural perspective (South Coast region only) by Abraham Singels
- The revamped SASRI weather data service also by Abraham Singels
- Development of the V-Choice variety selection system. (Linked with Integrating economic principles into variety recommendations: The Illovo case study by Sanesh Ramburan

- Nutrition of the South African sugar crop: current status and long-term trends by Michael van der Laan
- The value of leaf analysis in optimising yields by Neil Miles
- An applied approach to sugarcane harvest scheduling decision by Carel Bezuidenhout
- A running grass control strategy that is working (originally presented by Dave Sutherland) presented by Lawrence Polkinghorne
- Integrated weed management for sugarcane field verges by Des Conlong
- Impact of sugarcane thrips on sugarcane yield in field trials by Mike Way

SASTA would like to thank all the presenters, the Extension Specialists (Dirk McElligott, Justin Bowley, Otto de Haas and Billy Gillespie), Keith McFarlane, Gail Jack, Danny MacDonald and the Sezela Country Club for making the day such a success.

Distinguished Soil Scientist to visit the South African Sugar Industry

Professor Malcolm E. Sumner from the University of Georgia in the USA will visit the South African sugar industry through an international visitor's grant made available by SASTA. Professor Sumner has 55 years experience in soil science and has worked in many countries, including South Africa, Swaziland, central America, Saudi Arabia, the Netherlands, the USA, Australia and Greece.

He has written more than 250 peer reviewed articles and has been involved in the publication of eight books. His visit will coincide with the annual SASTA congress in late August where he will also present a plenary session paper. During his visit, Professor Sumner will work closely with Dr Neil Miles and other SASRI scientists on issues pertaining to nitrogen mineralization and soil organic matter. A special workshop on sustainable soil use is being organised where Prof Sumner and a number of other specialists will share their knowledge. The workshop will take place on 31 August 2011: see advert in this newsletter if you are interested to attend this workshop.

The SASTA international visitors grant was made possible out of the revenue generated from the 2007 ISSCT congress that was hosted in Durban. A call for the grant is open at all times and SASTA members who are interested to host international guests are welcome to contact the SASTA administrator for more details.
